

Conservative leaders in Markham-Unionville

While some of you have wondered if you have missed any big rallies over the last while, the answer is no. There haven't been any locally. But the work behind the scenes is ongoing, and our leader has been crisscrossing the country, with Markham-Unionville being one of his many stops for low-key business visits. Pierre was in town recently, visiting local businesses, including The Launch Hub (pictured). Other members of parliament have also hosted events here as well. MPs Larry Brock and Melissa Lantsman drew a full house for a Tough on Crime town hall at the Markham Hilton. We don't have an MP, but we are still on the radar as a prime target to turn the riding blue again next election.

President's Message

When the last newsletter went out, we were in the process of righting the ship, so to speak, after the unfortunate floor crossing of our MP to the government benches. We established a new board for the electoral district association (EDA) which is the formal title of your riding association.

We re-established control of our bank account and got our financial house in better order. We re-launched our mucpc.ca website where our newsletters and a local donation platform are hosted and re-launched social pages. We also launched our next candidate search and readied for a possible election.

But with more floor crossing and a slim majority government now potentially holding an election off for a couple of years or more, things changed. But that doesn't mean there aren't things happening and we have nothing to do. Quite the contrary. It's business as usual and the work is ongoing. There is always something to do and ways you can be involved in helping to elect a true-blue Conservative candidate in the next election who won't embarrass our community.

We're putting the pieces of an election team together now. Sign up for a sign ahead of time, volunteer for a canvas team or help with website maintenance and communications. You can register or a sign or donate to your local team via our MUCPC.com website or just keep up with us on our socials. It is all appreciated! Feel free to contact us at contact@mucpc.ca, at www.mucpc.ca or through our socials like Instagram; www.instagram.com/mucpc.ca/, Facebook www.facebook.com/markhamunionvilleconservatives

Riding Annual General Meeting and Elections

The annual general meeting is near and will be happening in August. It is the yearly update from the board and election of the executive and directors.

If you want to be involved in the board and have a front seat to what the party is doing at the local level, we have a place for you if you are willing to lend your talents and efforts to help us build our organization.

There will be a notice sent out with the exact date, place and times soon to all current members. Wondering if your membership is still current or when it will expire? Here's where you can check:

www.conservative.ca/membership-check . An email will be sent to your address on file with all the details.

Skills Training Sessions Open

For those who want to get involved and make a real difference come election time (and before), the Conservative Party is offering training sessions every 2nd Tuesday, on an ongoing basis. Each session is only an hour long.

Covering topics like Building Your Team, Growing the War Chest, Making the Most of Your Time, and Growing Your Social Following, these sessions are great learning grounds for volunteers, candidates and their teams and are led by industry leaders. Message us at contact@mucpc.ca to get registered

Markham-Unionville Nomination Contestants Announced

The nomination process to select our next election candidate is still underway. Your nomination committee has already interviewed and vetted three potential candidates. They are Joe Tay, Alex Yuan and Bob Saroya. All have been recommended locally by our committee to run, and the national council has also accepted them as candidates for nomination.

So the race is on, and those candidates will be reaching out to current and new members on an ongoing basis to build support and make their case for nomination. However, the process is still open to other would-be candidates. Message us at our email or socials if you want more information. The actual nomination meeting has not been called and may not be for a while. The date of a nomination is entirely at the discretion of the Party.

Donate Locally, Benefit Locally

The Markham-Unionville Conservative riding association is responsible for acquiring donations to support our candidate in each election. But some donations have more local impact than others.

Generally, donations made over the phone or through the central party's website go directly into the party's general national fund to support the great work our team does across the country. But only a small portion of your donation finds its way back to the local riding association to maintain a strong local Conservative voice in Markham-Unionville. What to do?

Consider donating directly to your riding association. 100% of every dollar donated through our local MUCPC.com website stays right here in the community to help build support and elect a Conservative member of parliament for Markham-Unionville. Every dollar donated locally is eligible for the same tax credit you would receive for a donation to the national party.

You can donate up to $1,775 to local or national organisations combined in 2026 and earn a generous tax credit of up to 75% and up to $650! Donate locally at <http://www.mucpc.ca> and help Markham-Unionville turn blue again next election.
